

So Long

Francesca Battistelli

I used to daydream that I could be free
And far away from all the pain in this world
A little understanding hand to hold me
I was wrapped up in my doubt
But all that changed when you came around
So long, all that lonely living
That something I was missing isn't missing anymore
So long to the way that wasn't working
And the hurting, that was all I knew
It's all gone so long as I have You
Still have the hard times when nothing's going right
Just wanna pull the covers over my head
You gave me a new perspective
When the days get heavy and I feel rejected
There's someone to run to since the day that I found You

So long, all that lonely living
That something I was missing isn't missing anymore
So long to the way that wasn't working
And the hurting, that was all I knew
It's all gone so long as I have You
So long to the mornings without meaning
The nights without sleeping
I'm right where I belong
So long, all that lonely living
That something I was missing isn't missing anymore
So long to the way that wasn't working
And the hurting, that was all I knew
It's all gone so long as I have You, I have You
