

No Place for the Innocent

Pendragon

Do you believe in Darwin's theory of evolution
Do you believe in the president, The bible, the constitution
Do you believe in innocence,
Do you believe in thought control
Do you believe in wonderland,
Or that there might just be no Al Qaeda at all
This is no place for the is no place for the broken-hearted This is no place for the innocent
This is no place for the weak, faint hearted
These are the days of the ambassadors of wonder
These are the days of love (pain)
These are the days of the architects of life,
So open up your eyes
Do you believe in miracles, in alien intervention
The Koran, the star of David
Do you believe in the web the spinners spun Do you believe in the Blair war on terror
Do you believe what you were taught at school
Do you believe in the xenophobes
It's a garble of intimations around the world
Society is so well intentioned
A star is reborn in the east
The secret societies of now to believe
The eyes of the world are upon you
Watching each move that is made.
I journey to find the God of dreams
The secret societies of Babylon
A star is reborn in the east
Hutchings and pyramids of men
The meaning of which is forgotten,
Lies under a deep bed of sand
Far from the view of human eyes.

Songwriters

NICHOLAS JOHN BARRETT Published by Lyrics Â© CONEXION MEDIA GROUP, INC.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>