

All Things Considered

Yankee Grey

All things considered I'm doin' just fine even though
You left a hole the size of Texas deep inside of my heart
The way I feel I should be losing my mind
But all things considered, I'm doin' just fine Woke up this morning
To the sound of you slammin' the door
I got served a piece of paper for breakfast
That said, "You don't live here no more" And the dog won't let me pet him
He just lays around and growls at my feet
And the paper boy forgot me again
I should have stayed in bed asleep All things considered I'm doin' just fine even though
You left a hole the size of Texas deep inside of my heart
The way I feel I should be losing my mind
But all things considered, I'm doin' just fine Well, my car broke down again
Right before it ran out of gas
Yeah, my boss is still ringing in my head
One more time and your out on your, yeah Well, I cant wait till
That five o' clock whistle blows
So I can sit in traffic all day
And end up going home alone All things considered I'm doin' just fine even though
You left a hole the size of Texas deep inside of my heart
The way I feel I should be losing my mind
But all things considered, I'm doin' just fine, yeah, yeah All things considered I'm doin' just fine even though
You left a hole the size of Texas deep inside of my heart
The way I feel I should be losing my mind
But all things considered, I'm doin' just fine
I'm doin' just fine
