

Scream

Lene

Truth is blurry and distorted
And my vision stained
In my mindless space silent voices wake
Speak no good or worth, I feel no gravity
Another promise broke, another empty stroke
Then I fall headfirst
And slowly I escape and I release the pain
I feel the gravity, I feel the gravity
And I scream
But my mind can't eat
When my soul won't sleep
Won't you feed my swollen appetite?
And I scream
In my weightless frame
Tell me who's to blame
If the pictures lie?
Million miles away from the real world
Is where the fiction lays
Tear another page, hope your doubts erase
Read the words you're told, I'm yelling yet unheard
Same old story, stone cold days
Don't know what is real
I'm blind until it hurts
I'm blind until it hurts
And I scream
But my mind can't eat
When my soul won't sleep
Won't you feed my swollen appetite?
And I scream
Guess it just don't matter when you're so helpless
And the life you're given a mess
Give me one good reason why I'm so mixed up
I wish the damn fake bubble would burst
(And I scream)
Guess it just don't matter when you're so helpless
And the life you're given a mess
(And I scream)
Give me one good reason why I'm so mixed up
I wish the damn fake bubble would burst
Guess it just don't matter when you're so helpless
And the life you're given a mess
Give me one good reason why I'm so mixed up
I wish the damn fake bubble would burst
