

Bronze

Pollock

Have you been all this time
Trying to deserve bronze
When they all aspire to gold
Overboard
Do you?
And do you think that you won?
I can still recall you
When their bones began to glow
On and on
On and on A wasted direction
Lost cause
But I would try
You're losing your balance
Deep inside And entertaining days
They just don't feel the same
It's hard to concentrate
The grass is always greener
Don't believe what you're told
When lightning strike your gold
You'll find yourself alone
And nobles won't protect you You saw them for the first time
Christening their new ship
Never-ending celebration
On and on
New crew
So take off your black trench coat
Hide in your cabin
Wishing you were on firm land
Run back home
Run back home And I will forget you
So how
And I should try
You're losing your balance
Deep inside A wasted direction
Lost cause
But I would try
You're losing your balance
Deep inside
