

Empty Promises

Miss May I

Hopelessly lost in our hell, we fight for our bottomless grave.

Disgraced by you, we are left in these darker days.

Oh, we can never deliver what we set to pursue.

Captive to our own fate entombed in ourselves.

There's no more distance to reach.

Horizons are dead in our dreams.

You've blocked out the light, blinded our aspirations.

With empty promises, the trust I hold tight fades to memories.

You always let me down.

You said that you knew the way, always let me down.

We held onto what we knew, corrupted in all we believed.

You drew us into your own design, leaving us with nothing left but nightmares alone in the dark, strangled to what was desired.

With empty promises, the trust I hold tight fades to memories.

You always let me down.

You said that you knew the way, always let me down.

I followed the steps you have given me, leading me to nowhere with nothing.

A player in your game of misfortune, a pawn to your throne.

You always let me down.

With empty promises, the trust I hold tight fades to memories.

You always let me down.

You said that you knew the way, always let me down.

You always let me down
