With A Thousand Words To Say But One

Darkest Hour

And to reflect is to regret throwing it all away
And apathy my one way street it took so much from me
Separated by this divide I created through my fears
And in your tears it's hard to show blind eyes and tell deaf earsIf we can make it through the landslide standing
We'll lift each other up to see the bliss on the horizon
Been looking in from the outside lately
Well I've seen who I used to be and it's not meAnd we can keep healing
And we can keep holding onWell I just want to take you where our time won't waste anymore
Through the mountains on the water we'll stay engulfed in one another
And when I can wake up to see the sunrise in your eyes
Then we'll finally be free and I'll know I've made it homeSo, let's go out west and bask in the overcast
And walking through the rain
We'll see the beauty in life again, life againAnd to reflect is to regret throwing it all away
And apathy my one way street it took so much from me
Separated by this divide I created through my fears
And in your tears it's hard to show blind eyes and tell deaf earsWe can keep healing all alone
We can keep holding on
