One and Only

Joshua Radin

I've been talking,
almost an hour now,
and you watch me spin,
my wheels around again.
I've been walking,
hundreds of miles,
still have so far to go, till I can make you show me, that I don't have to keep talking, I don't have to keep walking, just have to lay here with you, let me lay where I'm save,
I don't want to run anymore,
I dont want be the secret you keep,
I don't want to hide anymore,
I want you,
I choose you.Maybe tomorrow, after we've woken,
and those big blue eyes, are bigger than half the size, of pain and the sorrow, and all those broken seem so far away, we'll forget all our yesterdays, and I won't have to be lonely, now that I'm with my one and only, just have to lay here with me.Let me lay where I'm safe, I don't want to run anymore,
and I dont want to be the secret you keep,
I don't want to hide anymore,
I want you,
I choose you.You have the eyes that I seek,
when I close mine, bigger than oceans and brighter than sunshine, let me lay where I'm safe,
I don't want to run anymore,
and I dont want to be the secret you keep,
I don't want to hide anymore,
I want you,
I choose you.
