

Occupied Tears

Serj Tankian

I forgot to bring you roses
When you hit the floor, you knew wall poses
Asking for war, have you forgot the wall
I've foreseen it all, we've foreseen it all
Holocaust, you've taste the great fear
How can you just occupy another child's tear?
Don't you all know, don't you all care?
Don't you all see how this isn't fair?
Are we all blind? Do we not see? Do we not bleed? Fake crisis of lost lands, minds surrounded by minds
We're the warning signs of the great sacrifice
Holocaust, you've taste the great fear
How can you just occupy another child's tear?
Don't you all know, don't you all care?
Don't you all see how this isn't fair?
Are we all blind? Do we not see? Do we not bent to misery?
Of course we all know, of course we all care
Of course we all see how this isn't fair
We are not blind, yet we don't see
Is that you end this misery? It's time to go up to bed
No more sipping on our regret
Talk to kids and without worry
No more running out in a hurry
No more bombs falling over head
No more sirens predicting dead
Yes, it's good to state solution
No more glaring through oblivion Asking for war, have you forgot the wall
I've foreseen it all, we've foreseen it all
Holocaust, you've taste the great fear
How can you just occupy another child's tear?
Don't you all know, don't you all care?
Don't you all see how this isn't fair?
Are we all blind? Do we not see? Do we not bent to misery?
Of course we all know, of course we all care
Of course we all see how this isn't fair
We are not blind, yet we don't see
Is that you end this misery
It's no mystery...
It's no mystery...
