

Chinese Envoy

John Cale

She was a princess
Much lower than people thought
A master of nothing
A mistress of something she thought
She could talk about things that never mattered ever
From one person's miserable life after another
She could talk to the French and Germans at will They'd never listen, they never will
The Chinese envoy was here
The Chinese envoy was here but left
The Chinese envoy was here but left
In his broken hearted pagoda
Calling out her name, you'd be surprised at what came Galping out of the darkness just like furniture
We'd have lost it all if it hadn't been for Cardinal Richelieu
And all his courtiers

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>