

Simplicity

Tim Curry

I try every way I know to tell you, I run down all my clever ways
Every smart forever phrase
How'm I gonna get her? Hack out another love letter?
But you deserve better, babe The hardest thing for me is true simplicity
But it's the only thing that's good enough for you Every day I wake up later, I'm afraid to face the sun
I want to hide from everyone
Memory is bitter, tell myself I'm no quitter
But the gold no longer glitters babe The hardest thing for me is true simplicity
But it's the only thing that's good enough for you Blood in a bucket
No rhyme, mainline, sunshine
And it's the nearest
This boy's been to joy And I do believe, I shall believe
I shall be free on the day you say you need me
Need me, need me, yaa I push the doorknob to the booze
I might try out for the blues, aching and lonely
What does it take to telephone me?
I'm much too close to breaking But I do believe, I shall believe
I shall be free on the day you say you need me
Need me, need me, yaa, yaa, yaa The hardest thing for me, is true simplicity
It's the only thing that's good enough for you
The hardest thing for me is true simplicity
It's the only thing that's good enough for you
Yaa, yaa
