

All the Things You Can't Remember

William Bell

Don't you remember
All the things that you said
That cut like a knife
You laughed while I bled And now you come calling
When you're so upset
But all the things you can't remember
I'm still trying to forget For you it was so easy
To treat me like dirt
Do you think I didn't care
Or couldn't feel the hurt
But one day you'll wake up
To a world of regret
All the things you can't remember
I'm still trying to forget All the things you can't remember
I'm trying
All the things you can't remember
I'm still trying to forget
(Your devils, your demons, your lying and your scheming
Your lying, deceiving, and still I kept believing) Now here you are
At my front door
But it's too late to cry
I don't love you no more
You took a gamble
And you lost your bet
All the things you can't remember
I'm still trying to forget
I'm still trying to forget
(All the things you can't remember)
I'm still trying to forget
(All the things you can't remember)
I'm still trying
I'm still trying to forget
Oh I'm trying
I'm still trying to forget
Things you can't remember
I'm trying to forget
