

Cyanide Sun

Him

Should've known how hard it is to stop tearing each other apart
Separating souls entwined with all these labyrinthine lies I am dead to you, a shadow doomed
My love, forever in the dark
And of all untruths the truest is you
Too close to my heart This emptiness I've made my home
Embracing memories of dreams long gone
One last caress from the corpse of love is all I want
Underneath the cyanide sun We've sailed the seas of grief on a raft built with our tears
Looking for a way to disappear for a moment from our deepest fears
