Crash

Lou Bega

As I lie here tossing in my bed
Lost in my fears remembering what you said
And I try to hide the truth within
The mask of myself shows its face again
Still I lie time and time again
Will you deny me when we meet again?
And I feel like I'm falling farther every day
But I know that you're there, watching over me
And I feel like I'm drowning, the waves crashing over me
But I know that your love, it will set me free
As I find truth, where I found it times before
As I search for your hope, I'm finding so much more
And I try to be more like you
And I deny myself to prove my heart is true
I hear your voice calling, the time has come for me
Inside this life, I'm living, there's nothing left for me
My mind is slowly fading so far away from me
Each time, I start crawling, you're there watching me

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/