

Life Begins Again

Jimmy Chamberlin Complex

With every breath you take life begins again
And every time you whisper death starts to descend
You're all alone until you close your eyes and you can see the Beauty in your life it begins again and again and againWe sat alone one night and you were crying to me
A fear held me so tight my soul
Of what the future held and what the world was bringing to me
This matter of the future in my head againA vision came before me, crystalline
And now I see it clearly two bright lightsBe, just be hovering and wondering, whispering in choral dreams
Of all the kings and all the queens, presidents and vanities
All of you and all of me, all and all and everything
Be, just beI saw you standing in the sun today
We'd lived our lives and loved the truth
Our dreams came true for us just like you said
Now our souls can truly begin again and again and again and againNow you see me
Now you see me
Now you see meBe, just be

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>