

People Change Their Minds (Live in Chicago)

William Fitzsimmons

You were set to sail at sea so young,
She was only 17 I'm told,
This is not about assigning blame,
But it was wrong when she left you, You were just a boy when she moved on,
Though I'm told that you were better off,
Still I wonder if you wanted to,
Where did she go? And people change their minds,
And she was happy once,
Like a mother keeps her children close enough to reach her hands. And I know it's been a real hard year,
But I'm hoping you can let it go,
'cause you still have so much love to give to those,
who still need you.
And people change their minds,
And she was happy once,
Like a mother keeps her children close enough to reach
Like a mother keeps her children close enough to reach her hands.
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>