

Burying Your Past

Gob

you used to shine like a diamond all the time but now you forgot all your dreams forgot the times that you had gravel in your knees and i raised you back to your feet and now you're watered down there's nothing left burning inside so many times i fell on my face and you lifted my spirits back to place i hope the pieces are all around the puzzle of you burying your past and if that perfect smile isn't the perfect lie you're faking again wake in the morning bleeding from my back and dying because you neglect your heart i have so many emotions, passions burning in my heart.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>