Milwaukee

The Both

We walked over the bridge in Milwaukee Past the statue of Fonz and the duck With the wind kicking in and the sparrows all running amok And that woman, your friend who was pregnant
Put your hand on her belly for luck
And I laughed 'cause it's you and I knew that you knew you were stuckYou can tell By the laugh in the dark
at the sound of the bell
You can tell
It's the nucleus burning
inside of the cell
It's the nucleus burning
inside of the cellWe got over that bridge and went walking Back to a table with cards to be dealt And a show where the whole front row was taking pictures of itself And then, man, your old friend turned the night on its end Like your time was a bottomless well But you grabbed me and said, "Come on back from the ledge for a spell"You can tell
By the laugh in the dark
at the sound of the bell
You can tell
It's the nucleus burning
inside of the cell
inside of the cell
