Fallen

Zox

Baby I do believe I'm fallen.
Tumbling down, inside and out,
'Til the morning comes around.
Sometimes I'm sure that I am crazy.
It's taking its toll,
It's making me old,
With half the winter still to go.
Maybe I'm afraid of love.
Maybe I'm afraid of pain.
And maybe I'm afraid too much.
Maybe I'm afraid that I won't ever change.
(Take, take me home.)
Let up all my loneliness,
Give my head a rest,
Can't you see I'm waiting?
(Take, take me home.)
Let up all my loneliness,
Give my head a rest,
Can't you see I'm waiting?
Baby please do believe I'm trying.
But it gets so hard to see to the stars,
When you don't know where they are.
And sometimes I'm sure that I am failing.

Too tired to bite,
Too lonely tonight,
To make this come out right.
Maybe I'm afraid of love.
Maybe I'm afraid of you.
I know that I'm afraid too much,
But there's nothing I can do.
(Take, take me home.)
Let up all my loneliness,
Give my head a rest,
Don't you see I'm waiting?
(Take, take me home.)
Take-take-take me home!
Let up all my loneliness,
Give my head a rest,

Can't you see I'm waiting?
(Take, take me home.)
You disappear,
I'll disappear.
(Take, take me home.)
I'll disappear,
If you leave me fallen here.
