Honey Bee

Hotel Coffee

Sitting on a bench, and you're on a fence. I know a lot's been on your mind. Given circumstance, well, it's probably chance, but in me, you can't confide. And I know it's shit, the first to admit the future's not looking so bright. With your self-doubt, I just wanna help out with all of your sleepless nights.

I know something's wrong. I'm catching on. Just give me the time with your peace of mind. And you can count on me with your sanity. Hey it's been a while since I've seen you smile.

Fear and distress, but I think you must need someone to help work this out. It's so unjust, and your psyche busted open, bleeding out. Push it onto me, and I will help you see that there is still some good out there. Anxiety and your misery, now they have left you so bare.

I know something's wrong. I'm catching on. Just give me the time with your peace of mind. And you can count on me with your sanity. Hey it's been a while since I've seen you smile. All I see is self-doubt, and I wanna help out.

Hey, it's been a while since I've seen you smile. You know you can count on me. I'd hate to see you cry, suffocate, and die, choking on your misery. You know something's wrong, but I'm catching on, just give me the time. I am gonna find all the secrets to your peace of mind, mind you. I'll always have the time for you cause I am gonna see you smile once in a little while.

Sitting on a bench, and you're on a fence. I know a lot's been on your mind. Given circumstance, well, it's probably chance, but in me, you can't confide. And I know it's shit, the first to admit the future's not looking so bright. With your self-doubt, I just wanna help out with all of your sleepless nights.

You'll never have to fear, cause I'll always be here.

Lyrics Submitted by Neo G.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/