Fill Me Again

Dark New Day

Like a postcard picture fading out to desert winter
Once an ocean now it leaves me dry
Clouds are separating tear apart this life I'm living
I'm gravitated to this brand new light
Is it in me? Am I still in control?
Did it leave me? I look around for a soul
What's come over me?
Always waiting for the next wave to wash over
And fill me again, fill me again
Will it carry me far enough from all I've suffered?
Will it bridge the gap from there to here?
I wonder if I had it all
Would I feel there's something missing?
In tomorrow's light it seems so clear
Is it in me? Am I still in control?

Did it leave me? I look around for a soul
What's come over me?
Always waiting for the next wave to wash over
And fill me again, fill me again
The wind is keeping me from falling forward
Just another crutch to get me through
The wave is coming and it's rising upward
It's going to lift me to meet the blue
Is it in me? Am I still in control?
Did it leave me? I look around for a soul
What's come over me?
Always waiting for the next wave to wash over
And fill me again, fill me again
Fill me again, fill me again
