

Always Worth It

Sarah Blasko

Half forgotten things in the depths of time they lie
With significance, waiting for the simplest sign of life
See the evidence, that expense is part of life in time Always worth it if only to realize
Not always perfect but somehow deserving of time Disconnected things, you exist within a kind
Of truth and the consequence, of a consummated trial of fire Always worth it if only to realize
Not always perfect but somehow deserving of time, oh You've no way out, no path in Set on paper, half in stone, you're on your own, oh Always worth it if only to realize
Not always perfect but somehow deserving of time
Always worth it if only to realize, realize, oh, oh
