Throwing a Line

Jon McLaughlin

You wanted to see
All that I could be
In in your life, your life
What if I fail though,
I forget all the details
On what's right, what's rightI'm throwing a line, asking for help
This is more than I thought
I think to myself
That living in love
is trusting above myselfYou gave me your heart
What a place to start
All those empty scars and all those cold remarks
We're always promising that honesty would let us be inside each other's mindsI'm throwing a line, asking for help
This is more than I thought
I think to myself
That living in love
Is trusting above myself
Everyday I'm constantly trying to sacrifice
Cause I know despite me that living in love is trusting above
Myself

Lyrics provided by