

Head To Stars

Jack River

I don't want to know you, if I can't hold you like I'm meant to
I see the stars fall from the sky, and I don't want to be them
I want to stay up although he's been down and blue, down and blue
So put your hands in my pocket in the cold night breeze and I let you
You twirl the wind round your hair and you moon glow stare at me
Oh, this hell is so pretty, so pretty
But your freakshow caravan is even boring
It's on the road, let it go go
I take a last look at you and I add it to my collection Cause I don't want to know you, if I can't hold you like I'm meant to
I see the stars fall from the sky, and I don't want to be them
I want to stay up although he's been down and blue, down and blue
I know you burnt those photographs from last summer, so you lied
Oh runaway darling, oh runaway
Your spider web mind and your broken smile can't stay here no more
Anyway I know you tried to get by without love
Well you'll come back someday and I'll be far away Cause I don't want to know you, if I can't hold you like I'm meant to
I see the stars fall from the sky, and I don't want to be them
I want to stay up although he's been down and blue, down and blue.
