Smalltown

Jezz Hall

And every morning comes too soon
All your nights are sleepless
Poison arrows
To ruin your tomorrowsBelow suspicion
Cafes full of people dressed as spies
And all I know
Is guilt for being differentIt's always raining stones
There's a killer in my home
In a small town
Everybody looks the same
There are unwritten rules
Unspoken words
Should I pack my fear and go?I have to leave somehow
Before they run me out of town
I have to leave somehowAnd every morning comes too soon
All your nights are sleepless
Poison arrows
To ruin your tomorrows
There are unwritten rules
Unspoken words
Should I pack my fear and go?I have to leave somehow
Before they run me out of town
I have to leave somehowI have to leave somehow
Before they run me out of town
I have to leave somehowI have to leave somehow
Before they run me out of town
I have to leave somehowI have to leave somehow
Before they run me out of town
I have to leave somehow{Please sir I want some more}
