

The Book

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Its not something Im proud of
Not something I would tell my friends
Its not something I want you, to know about me
But Ill break down my addiction, so you can see
Into my life, just so you can see
Its so hard for me to say so hard
You know Im addicted to The Book
So many hours I have spent
Stalking all my friends
You know Im addicted to The Book I could look at all
Nine hundred seventy two pictures
I could blow it off
Like it I didnt care about that dude in that picture tagged with you
But I do, I hate to admit this, I clicked his profile too And now Im clowning on his trucker hat
I cant believe youd hang out with that I thought your status said youre single
Hes kissing on your ear girl I play it off like the book is not my style
Then Ill go and spend the next forty minutes
Moving on to a new profile
I mean I swear on my life that Ive tried to tone it down
I mean I keep looking at the people from my hometown
Sitting there not trying to be mean
But damn dude got fat from my 6th grade soccer team
Its my dream to spend all day laptop out clicking away
What more can I say I understand it comes and goes these phases always pass
They let us know its just trend and ask hows it gonna last
I dont know and I dont care, but hope its gonna stay
They dont understand, I just need it every day
