East West

Julia Fordham

It's been a whole year since your call
The one that started
I don't love you anymore
I thought I'd surely not survive
But here I am, I'm still alive, 365 days later Going strong, holding on trying to find a place where I belong I've been east, I've been west but I'm still not over you yet
I'm still not over you yet, no no
The weeks and months blend into one A bleary haze, fall, winter now spring has begun Bringing fresh hope to my door I'll be the girl I was before you took back the precious gift you gave to me Going strong, holding on
trying to find a place where I belong
I've been east, I've been west
but I'm still not over you yet
I'm still not over you yet, no no
And after all is said and done and written up (written in the stars above) The radio's singing songs of love but not for us
Not for us
Going strong, holding on
trying to find a place where I belong
I've been east, I've been west
but I'm still not over you yet
I'm still not over you yet, no no
East west, east west, 365 here I am, I'm still alive
