

Boy Strange

Pet Shop Boys

See boy strange on the horizon of love
He's calling to you what do you say
See boy strange as an example of youth
So, close to the truth but still far away And he's such a strange boy
Do you think he'll make a good exchange for
The one before a closed door that you left behind When you realize that this boy is strange
It's too late to change your point of view
He's often there when the sun meets the sky
With a perfect alibi unlike you And he's such a strange boy
Do you think he'll make a good exchange for
The one before a closed door that you left behind To talk of common sense is a complete waste of time
His looks are a crime bound to commit In the eyes of the world he's a borderline fool
Both naive and cruel, why would you inflict him on you? And he's such a strange boy
Do you think he'll make a good exchange for
The one before a closed door that you left behind And he's such a strange boy
Do you think he'll make a good exchange for
The one before a closed door that you left behind
