One More Time

Good Old War

Always be true.
And don't forget,
We can't erase the past,
or what's coming around the bend.The hardest part,
Is in my head.
I should let you go,
but I want to hold you instead.I never told you I don't want to hold you back,
but you have to know.
I'm gonna find my way and you're better off doing what you love.
But if this is our last night together ever,
can I hold you one more time?Life without you,
it's not what it seems.
Memories feel real,
it makes it hard to believe.I never told you I don't want to hold you back,
but you have to know.
I'm gonna find my way and you're better off doing what you love.
But if this is our last night together ever,
can I hold you one more time?How you feeling now you're on your own?
While you're out there, keep in mind the mistakes you make only love you go.
You can love it, never have control.
Give it your heart. Give it all your soul.I never told you I don't want to hold you back,
but you have to know.
I'm gonna find my way and you're better off doing what you love.
But if this is our last night together ever,
can I hold you one more time?I never told you I don't want to hold you back,
but you have to know.
I'm gonna find my way and you're better off doing what you love.
But if this is our last night together ever,
can I hold you one more time?

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/