Sarah

Maren Ord

She drives herself through the streets
Watching eyes so blindly
Taking pictures she can't see or showOn her mind is who to meet
Cautioning too kindly Wondering if she'll ever have
A need to knowSarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back door
Sarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back doorThey say she can't hold her own
And her mama's never homeSarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back door
Sarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back doorYou wonder why she feels so alone
How could a young girl feel so oldYou know
Sarah doesn't care anymore
You know what they say
What they talk about at the back door
But it's not that waySarah walks along silently on her own
Keeping to herself
Talks to no one else
And cares not for anyoneSealing those pictures of the past
How time's flown so fastSarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back door
Sarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back doorThey say she can't hold her own
And her mama's never homeSarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back door
Sarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back doorYou wonder why she feels so alone
How could a young girl feel so oldYou know
Sarah doesn't care anymore
You know what they say
What they talk about at the back door
But it's not that waySarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back door
Sarah doesn't care anymore
What they talk about at the back doorYou wonder why she feels so alone
How could a young girl feel so oldSarah doesn't care anymore
Sarah doesn't care anymore

Sarah doesn't care anymore
Sarah doesn't care anymore
