

Something's Wrong

Bayside

Here we are, half past dead on Friday night
In a bar, serving up confidence and fights You were right when you told me I was wrong
When I said friends as sick these never last long And all the boys celebrate their gender of victory Keep preying on the weak, and the girls celebrate defeat Something's wrong with this one I can't be the first one with the strength to curse my generation Something's wrong, there's something's wrong with me Not to say that I know any more than you but at least I can admit, to care is the hardest thing we do You were right when you told me I was wrong When I say, "We don't need to be blinded for so long." Something's wrong with this one I can't be the first one
with the strength to curse my generation
Something's wrong Before you leave then close your tab Raise a glass to the death of the generation gap Unless of course you've got other plans Who do you think you are?
And how do you ever get this way?
Putting lust above humanity and calling it okay
You were wrong when you told me I was right when I said pleasure comes in ways you can't define Something's wrong with this one I can't be the first one
with the strength to curse my generation Something's wrong Something's wrong, is something wrong with me?
