

Long Lankin (2009 Remastered Version)

Steeleye Span

Said the Lord unto his Lady as he rode over the moss
"Beware of Long Lankin that lives amongst the gorse
Beware the moss, beware the moor, beware of Long Lankin
    Be sure the doors are bolted well
Lest Lankin should creep in"Said the Lord unto his Lady as he rode away
    "Beware of Long Lankin that lives amongst the hay
Beware the moss, beware the moor, beware of Long Lankin
    Be sure the doors are bolted well
Lest Lankin should creep in""Where's the master of the house?", says Long Lankin
    "He's 'way to London", says the nurse to him
    "Where's the lady of the house?", says Long Lankin
    "She's up in her chamber", says the nurse to him
    "Where's the baby of the house?", says Long Lankin
"He's asleep in the cradle", says the nurse to him"We will pinch him, we will prick him
    We will stab him with a pin
    And the nurse shall hold the basin
For the blood all to run in"So they pinched him and they pricked him
    Then they stabbed him with a pin
    And the false nurse held the basin
For the blood all to run in"Lady, come down the stairs," says Long Lankin
    "How can I see in the dark?", she says unto him
    "You have silver mantles", says Long Lankin
    "Lady, come down the stairs by the light of them"
    Down the stairs the lady came, thinking no harm
Lankin, he stood ready to catch her in his armsThere was blood all in the kitchen
    There was blood all in the hall
    There was blood all in the parlor
Where my lady she did fallNow Long Lankin shall be hanged
    From the gallows, oh, so high
    And the false nurse shall be burned
In the fire close bySaid the Lord unto his Lady as he rode over the moss
    "Beware of Long Lankin that lives amongst the gorse
Beware the moss, beware the moor, beware of Long Lankin
    Make sure the doors are bolted well
    Lest Lankin should creep in"
