

Born to Break Your Heart [Act 4]

Josh Abbott Band

And I blame myself, I could've told you sooner
Now it's too late to warn you, I'm already gone
I know it's hell, these miles between us
But girl, I can't just turn around
I know you think I'm wrong Some battles you can fight forever
Some end before they start
Some lovers find a way together
And some just fall apart
Don't think it doesn't hurt me, too
To just leave you in the dark
It ain't your fault
I might've been born to break your heart And we know by now
That hotels and highways just ain't working
To keep this fire burning, we keep burning out Some battles you can fight forever
Some end before they start
Some lovers find a way together
And some just fall apart
Don't think it doesn't hurt me, too
To just leave you in the dark
It ain't your fault
I might've been born to break your heart I tried so hard to tell myself that you'd be all I need
But now that you can't help the hurt
It's best you let me leave
It ain't your fault
I might've been born to break your heart Some battles you can fight forever
Some end before they start
Some lovers find a way together
And some just fall apart
Don't think it doesn't hurt me, too
To leave you in the dark
It ain't your fault
No, it ain't your fault
I was just born to break your heart
