

Lay Low

Spector

Before you were mine, I'd stay at home, almost all the time
I'd lay low, lay low
Before I was yours, I'd almost always be behind closed doors
I'd lay low, lay low
But promises were broken, now I don't feel a thing
Oh, you don't light me up like you used to
Don't light me up like you used to
You don't light me up like you used to do
There were days, there were years, when no argument would end in tears
We'd lay low, lay low
We got so close that at times, you know I'd confuse your thoughts for mine
We'd lay low, lay low
But promises were broken, now I don't feel a thing
Oh, you don't light me up like you used to
Don't light me up like you used to
You don't light me up like you used to do
Oh it's been a while since you've danced like you used to
Made me a laugh or smile like you used to
You don't light me up like you used to do
But what if I fell right out of the sky?
Back into your arms, back into your life?
Oh, you don't light me up like you used to
Don't light me up like you used to
You don't light me up like you used to,
Like you used to, like you used to
Oh, It's been a while since you've danced like you used to
Made me a laugh or smile like you used to
You don't light me up like you used to do
