Overcome

All That Remains

Past it haunts again the trace of life and fuck this nightmare that has no end the shadow of tomorrow so this day to day has my corpse shake into my raise my spirits high i never thought that i should never have thought that this would never end the moment we started old wounds you could not mend five and day to day six six the voice i take away my dreams are fallen no more to share
now the end remains

my one regret my body stays I'm sick again
I fall from grace
i should never have thought that this would never end
the moment we started old wounds you could not mend should never have thought that this would never end the fear was to much for us to bare
so this day to day has my corpse shake into my raise my spirits high i never thought that i should never have thought that this would never end
the moment we started old wounds you could not mend
should never have thought that this would never end the feel was to much for us to bare Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/