

So Sorry

Brian McKnight

For every time you had gone to sleep alone
For every time I tried to rush you off the phone
For every time I said something to make you cry
Now that all is said and done, I can't deny I'm so sorry for anything I might have done
And I'm sorry, I never meant to hurt the only one
And I'm sorry that best laid plans sometimes fall through
For anything I might have done, I apologize to you
For anything I might have done, I apologize to you For every time I lied right to your face and you knew it
For all the wasted time that we cannot replace
For every time a discussion turned into an argument we'd fight
How I wish that I could have it back tonight I'm so sorry for anything I might have done
And I'm sorry, I never meant to hurt the only one
And I'm sorry, the best laid plans sometimes fall through
For anything I might have done, I apologize to you
For anything I might have done, I apologize to you To try and count your tears would be like standing in the rain
The weather's been bad for years, for that I'll gladly take the blame
Now our two separate lives will never ever be the same
But I hope that you can forgive someday I'm so sorry for anything I might have done
And I'm sorry, I never meant to hurt the only one
And I'm sorry that the best laid plans sometimes fall through
For anything I might have done I apologize to you
For anything I might have done I apologize to you
