

Art of War

Discrepancies

We fell from grace and trust me I know it was hard,
But it didn't matter cause we were together,
The road got rough and somehow it drove us apart,
now I'm confused cause you said forever,
But then you left and you took the best of me

Evil preys on the broken hearted,
We try to pick it back up before we self-destruct but it will
Never be the same again
I know just what we started,
Coming to grips with the fact that if I take you back it will
Never be the same again

We all try to keep it cool but in due time we all fall,
Visions of a small spark, Victims of an onslaught,
Cause sparks will fly when hearts collide,
It starts inside, builds up and halts your pride,
Now you're feeling like one in a million just like it was written in stars, but hold up brace yourself homie here comes the scars,
Bad decisions are rarely forgiven whenever there's feelings involved, so hold up once again cause those feelings evolve,
Because I loved you way more than I loved myself,
I know we fell on hard times but why must we fail,
My love is strong yours must be frail,
Without happily ever after, stories suck to tell,
This isn't heaven so it must be

Evil preys on the broken hearted,
We try to pick it back up before we self-destruct but it will
Never be the same again
I know just what we started,
Coming to grips with the fact that if I take you back it will
Never be the same again

They told me love was a battlefield I guess this is the art of war, Cloaks, shields, ammunition, more than what I bargained for,
Cause now you're gone and I start to mourn,
And then you say you want me back, and I believe you but my heart is torn,
Now stop and listen you forgot the mission, not to mention,
Left me defenseless in the trenches without a pot to piss in,

Cause I was injured and you made your decision,
And that left me with the intelligence your heart wasn't in it,
You've had a change of heart and that's terrific, you asked me what's the difference,
Easy, when I said I loved you I fucking meant it,
When you walked out and closed the door did you find what you were looking for,
Did he treat you better, did he love you more,
did he fulfill all your fantasies?
You want to talk let's talk was he more of a man than me?
You're here with me so I didn't think so,
But yo you gotta go

Evil preys on the broken hearted,
We try to pick it back up before we self-destruct but it will
Never be the same again
I know just what we started,
Coming to grips with the fact that if I take you back it will
Never be the same again

Lyrics Submitted by Caleb Probst

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>