Hard Rain

Shout Out Louds

And the words came like a hard rain
And your smile changed just like a hurricane
And your breath smells like cardamom
And your words came just like a hard rain
Just like a hard rain
I recall you said you missed me
I was afraid I acted desperately
I recall you said it for hours
Then again it doesn't matter
I never tried and dared, I wish I'd said something
But I've been standing outside your door, at least that's something
And your breath smells like cardamom
And your words came just like a hard rain
Just like a hard rain
I recall you said you missed me
I was afraid I acted desperately
I recall you said it for hours
Then again it doesn't matter
I try to tell myself at night

When the dusty old pictures are all out of sight
That I think I will be alright
Don't come closer morning light
I try to tell myself at night
When the dusty old pictures are all out of sight
That I think I will be alright
Don't come closer morning light
I try to tell myself at night
When the dusty old pictures are all out of sight
That I think I will be alright
Don't come closer morning light
I try to tell myself at night
When the dusty old pictures are all out of sight
That I think I will be alright
Don't come closer morning light
I recall you said you missed me
I was afraid I acted desperately
I recall you said it for hours
Then again it doesn't matter
