

Soulmate

Beatamines

Monday morning you woke up crying
The outcome of a stupid line, oh-oh
Said by some punkass on the street
    It wasn't me, it wasn't you
    It wasn't anybody you knew, is it
    Your old friend insecurity?

The one companion that stuck by your side since you were born
    Tuesday night you were in a fight
    The same old argument, black and white
    It's something that's eating your inside
    It's not the food, it's not the booze
    It isn't anything consumed, so is it
    Becoming a problem you can't hide
So every time yo uthought that you were wrong you were right
    The devil on your shoulder gives you strength in paranoia
    The countless times you call a few

    Your best friend till the end of time
    They'll always be there by your side
    Solidify conditions you've abused
    What that means, you'll never have a clue
    More than just a life-long friend
    No social life, I guess we can pretend
    It's not like I care, but anyway

    You always wanna leave, you never wanna stay
    'Cause you think if you drink too much then you will lose it
    You'll drink your security away

The one companion that stuck by your side since you were born
    The little voice inside your head, annoying and confusing
    That somehow tells you what to do
Socially you've lost your mind and basically you're out of time
    You try to build so much, it breaks on you
    What that means, you'll never have a clue
