

Journey From Mariabronn

Kansas

Two began together, lived as one
Each one to the other had become
More than a friend, living to meet a common end
They were true, each one knew all is well Still the elder knew it could not last
Hidden memories of the young one's past drew them apart
Both knew that deep within their heart they must part
Each their own separate way It puzzles me how we can be so close
And yet worlds apart
Can it be, my memory has torn my life in two
From the very start I screamed for the devil to let me be
I called to the heaven to set me free
Today I prayed for the answer
And not one of your gods in the sky would rescue me Dreams of fortune fill the young ones mind
Learn the worldly ways and hope to find
Love on the way, searching to find the light of day
In his soul he had found his own way To each other they soon will return
Destiny fulfilled, their words will burn an eternal flame
