Lost In Your Heart

Alex Nackman

Well, I don't ever want to be lost but in your heart
Mostly singing 'bout fun, here's one about love
There's life in this body, just waiting to come out
I can feel it everytime your body mounts, a sigh of reliefSend me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
'Cause I'm lost in your eyes
Lost in your soul, I'm lost in your heartI'm not familiar with the term of lust that's for chumps
I also don't release my emotions if it's a fallacy, sure not Truth is a virtue and I am nothing but that
There's honesty to guide you and keep us all on track
Without it I'm false, without it I'm lost and I saySend me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
'Cause I'm lost in your eyes
Lost in your soul, I'm lost in your heartThis is a song for a girl who twirls with my emotions
Lyrics are like poetry, with a tone that keeps bouncing in my head
Here eyes, her ears, her hands, oh they're on me, as we drift to bed
It's how I feel I can't help it; no one steal it 'cause I felt itSend me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
'Cause I'm lost in your eyes
Lost in your soul, I'm lost in your heartSend me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
Send me on my way to find you
'Cause I'm lost in your eyes
Lost in your soul, I'm lost in your heart
