

Am I the Only One

Marc Anthony

Days have passed and still no sign of us
Not a hint of what used to be
When you lived in that part of me
This blinding silence lives in every room
Of what once was a happy home
Now we're sitting here all alone Could this be that it was all a lie
And we're just afraid to say "Goodbye" Am I the only one
Who sees what we've become?
I see no sense in going on
Or asking what went wrong We sit and stare at what could be
We both just grew apart you see
And through no fault of my own
It's our house but not a home It's strange to know there's truth in what I say
Baby, I know you feel the same
And the truth is no one's to blame
Two lonely dreamers, playing by the rules
All we thought of was me and you
Now we're faced with the truth I'd love to say that this is all a lie
But that just means I'm scared to say "Goodbye" Am I the only one
Who sees what we've become?
I see no sense in going on
Or asking what went wrong We sit and stare at what could be
We both just grew apart you see
And through no fault of my own
It's our house but not a home, yeah Could this be that it was all a lie
And we're just afraid to say "Goodbye" Am I the only one
Who sees what we've become?
I see no sense in going on
Or asking what went wrong We sit and stare at what could be
We both just grew apart you see
And through no fault of my own
It's our house but not a home Days have passed and still no sign of us
Not a hint of what used to be
When you lived in that part of me

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>