

Snow In Newark (Chet Porter Remix)

Ryan Hemsworth

I see your face every single time that I close my eyes, that I say your name
When the time flies by, goes one minute, minute, two minute
Then it's three weeks later and I'm still not home
Back at the club, trying to call your phone
It's middle of the night before I get back home
To a hotel room where you're a million miles away
Where you're a million miles away And I don't want to leave you here
I just want to be your shadow
And you can find me in the sun so bright
And tie me to your wrist each night
And I'll follow you
I'll follow you home
Well then the day cuts through
The circus door and window in my hotel room
And I'm in a haze, in a lonely dread
I need to get a cup of coffee, get the fuck out of my head and drown
Ears ringing, start singing to myself
Then cross straight lines going where the wind blows
But I'm living in a dream world
Acting like you're here, but you're a million miles away
But you're a million miles away
