

Dying To See You

Giant

I saw your picture and I wiped the dust away
Still can't believe that you're gone,
Don't know how I make it through another day
It's all I can do to carry on. Baby I'm dying to see you, to look into your eyes again
Since you left, things ain't been the same
Baby
I'm dying to feel you, dying to hold you in my arms once more
How I long to hear you call my name
In the back of an old closet, behind a broken door
Sits a tattered box, alone on an empty floor
Every now and then, I take it out and look inside
The memories that fill my head, it makes this old man smile I'm dying to see you, to look into your eyes again
Since you left, things ain't been the same
Baby
I'm dying to feel you, dying to hold you in my arms once more
How I long to hear you call my name It's just not the same
I'm dying to see you, to look into your eyes again
Since you left, things ain't been the same
Baby
I'm dying to feel you, dying to hold you in my arms once more
How I long to hear you call my name Oh baby, how I long to hear you call my name
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>