

Mr. Songman

Elvis Presley

Here's another dime for you, Mr. Songman
Sing the loneliness of broken dreams away if you can
Yes, it's only me and you, Mr. Songman
Take away the night, sing away my hurt, Mr. Songman
In your ivory covered palace
Safe behind your walls of glass
You keep staring back at me
Like a memory from the past
Won't you sing me away to a summer night?
Let me hold you in my arms again
I know memory's not re-living
But at least it's not the end
So here's another dime for you, Mr. Songman
Sing the loneliness of broken dreams away if you can
Yes, it's only me and you, Mr. Songman
Won't you take away the night, sing away my hurt, Mr. Songman?
