Rolling Stone

Gregg Allman

Don't care how long she's gone
Don't care how long she's stays
Don't care how long she's gone
Don't care how long she's stays
She's a rolling stone
She'll roll back home some day
She's a rolling stone
She'll roll back home some day
When the train turned yonder
I thought I heard it blow
When the train turned yonder
I thought I heard it blow
I'm going to bring my suitcase
Please, please let me go
I'm going to bring my suitcase
Please, please let me goThe train rolled off
She waved her hands at me
The train rolled off
She waved her hands at me
I looked out the window
As far as I could see
I looked out the window
As far as I could seeThe last time I saw her
Standing in the station crying
The last time I seen her
She was standing in the station crying
She told a friend
Yonder goes that man of mine
She told a friend
Yonder goes that man of mineLove make a poor man
Wish he was dead and gone
Love make a poor man
Wish he was dead and gone
'Cause the woman he loves
Is gone and left him all alone
'Cause the woman that he loved
Has left him all aloneLooks like I ain't seen her
Six long months today
Looks like I ain't seen her

Six long months today
Love make a poor man
Grieve and walk away
Love makes a poor man
Grieve and walk awayI don't care how long she's gone
I don't care how long she's stays
I don't care how long she's gone
I don't care how long she's stays
She's a rolling stone
