Cease to Exist

Tristania

A velvet breath of life
Enchants the garden of delight
Her voice within these winds
The flower so sereneHer cold and silent wail
Descend like midsummer rain
Bury my heart in thine
A taste of heavens wineBeneath a full moon bright
She comes with gowns flowing wide
With blood like lips of faun
Enchanting eyes of dawnTowards the moon she gazed
A lonely tear runs down her face
For all she lost in life
Buried so deep insideLeaves dance in her precious Eden
Where she lies deep
Her loss in life engraved
In dusk and angel tearsEnlight the night within me
Lead me there
To where my heart lies buried
Beneath the seven seasLeaves dance in her precious Eden
Where she lies deep
Her loss in life engraved
In dusk and angel tearsLeaves dance in her precious Eden
Where she lies deep
Her loss in life engraved
In dusk and angel tearsEnlight the night within me
Lead me there
To where my heart lies buried
Beneath the seven seas
