

Coming Too Close

No Use For A Name

There was a time would you would come and go Now there's no time left to react Just as it starts to heal in comes a bitter end you were all ready to leave my side and then Your comin too close and i cant pretend that ill pick you up or let you come in again We've been through this before so please understand that nothing in this heart can save you from the pain you seek
You can pick up your phone please dont call on me Noone can save you from the undertow nobody can blame us for the past just as i started thinking everythings alright you showed us truely that your tenth time was your last Your comin too close and i cant pretened
we've been through this before so please understand that nothing in this heart can save you from the pain you seek
Yesterday i saw you fall into the ground seems like things get worse when noone is around its not ok
your comin too close and i cant pretend
that ill pick you up or let you come in again we've been through this before so please understand that nothin in this heart can save you from the pain you seek
