

Born into the Sunset

Temples

I was born
I was thrown into the sunset
You were there
And a silent sleeping window array
I was tossed
Into walls of happy sundays
By the pair
Memories fade into the weekend awayEvery night
I will work until the sun's up
In disguise
Of a silent sleeping window array
Carousel
Spin me around until I'm seasick
I was born
I was born into the sunset today
Sunset todayBe as it may
Don't let anyone tell you
On and on it's true
You sit on your chances and see
That the world doesn't end at your feetBe as it may
Only knowing is needing
On an open sea
You lay on the surface and breathe
And you feel the eruption of freeParadise
Paradise into the sunset
Mellow cries
Amplified until the sound's red alertI was drawn
In the webs of the surroundings
I was torn
I was born into the sunset today
(Sunset today)Born of the night
Born of the night
Measuring miles
Everyone smilesBe as it may
Don't let anyone tell you
On and on it's true
You sit on your chances and see
That the world doesn't end at your feetBe as it may
Only knowing is needing

On an open sea
You lay on the surface and breathe
And you feel the eruption of free

Songwriters

JAMES EDWARD BAGSHAW, ADAM THOMAS SMITH, SAMUEL TOMS, THOMAS EDWARD WALMSLEY Published by

Lyrics © IMAGEM MUSIC INC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>