

Change

Patty Griffin

Dog comes howling up behind you
Sinks his teeth in your leg
Tells you how now this is gonna be a little different
And he takes you down a peg You make him ashamed for you
He buys you a new dress
Because you make him ashamed for you
And he'd like you to look your best So you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And the dog bites down a little harder Somewhere out in the wild wild west
That silly little thing that we tossed, tossed, tossed Somehow now we don't talk about nothing else but that Silly little thing that we lost, that we lost, that we lost And now there's no name for you
Come to find out none of that shit was even true
But now there's no name for you
I understand that you lost that too When you changed, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
When you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And the dog bites down a little harder Change, change
Change, change Man said, "Woman, I'm a little tired of you"
She said, "Don't leave me, baby, I'll do anything you want me to"
He said, "Can't you do something about the mess around this place"
She said, "Anything, baby, anything, I can cover my face" You make him ashamed for you
He buys you a new dress
'Cause you make him ashamed for you
In your nakedness So you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
And you change, oh oh oh oh oh oh
You change, you change, you change, change Change, change
Change, change, change And the dog bites down a little harder
